

Growing up in a musical and supportive family helped Ed Peekeekoot become a highly skilled finger-style guitarist. A singer-songwriter and multi-instrumentalist, Ed also plays fiddle, banjo, and traditional Native flute and drums.

His in the key of cree was nominated for Best Country CD at the Aboriginal People's Choice Music Awards 2008 and he performed on the awards show broadcast live on APTN. He was nominated twice as the BC Country Music Association instrumentalist of the year.

The music of Ed Peekeekoot goes from foot-stomping fiddle to virtuoso classical guitar, sprinkled throughout with his Cree humor and philosophy. He takes people on a wildly varied musical journey in styles ranging from country to folk and even a little jazz. He performs at festivals, concerts, dances, and corporate events.

Ed has 4 CDs out: Front Porch (solo acoustic guitar); In the Key of Cree (originals based on his Cree heritage); Dance Tonight (most requested tunes); and A Prairie Christmas.
